

January 2006..v4

Brightest Blessings & Warmest Wishes!

It's been a long, long year indeed. So much has happened and so much more to come! I have a burning desire...so much more than a vision... It would be nice to see all that are that BE attain complete enlightenment and own their complete power within. I know that many of you that have conversed with me may get tired of me preaching the same 'ol stuff but it's true, you can reclaim your power! This coming year will be like none other and I vow to bring forth the magick to all.

Alas, when all is said and done, we will be approaching yet another New Year of 2007 before you know it...but not before we go full force and make this coming year of of 2006 much better than the last.

Brightest Blessings & Warmest Wishes,

The Year of the Dog

The Chinese zodiac follows a twelve year cycle, each of the years being named after an animal. The Chinese believe that people born in a particular year take on the characteristics of the animal associated with that year. 2006 is the Year of the Dog.

They're honest and faithful right up to the end. Yes, even songs have been written about the qualities of this/her character and nothing matches the loyalty and dedication of the Dog. He is compassionate, sympathetic and understanding. They don't hold grudges very often and is quite at home wearing the hat of Captain Courageous.

So it is that the year of 2006 holds the energy of loyalty, devotion and a sense of duty. The energy of the Dog is very different to that of the Rooster energy which we have experienced through 2005. The Rooster leads from the front, takes no prisoners and is so certain of his/her goals and principles that there is no room for manoeuvre what

CANCER - June 21-July 22

Ask Mona!

Q: I'm confused with all the information I see, with the retrogrades, Moon Void of Course good days, bad days etc to do my spells or even go to do my daily events for that fact! What do you suggest so I don't grow old and become a superstitious and paranoid old hag?

A: "Laughter is good for the soul" as the saying goes. You've made me laugh! My dear, the word "superstition" means to show ignorance in the laws of nature and faith in magic or chance. The origins of magick date back to centuries and well date beyond B.C. Astrology, Numerology, and other related magickal practices are actually mathematically calculated thus needing logic in it's calculated results. It only becomes the occult when one taps into ones hidden knowledge or intuition. One can say religion alone is thereby most superstitious hence not having any logical or calculated reason for it's results nor justification other than belief, faith... Do as you will. Without seeing your chart or providing you with a reading I cannot tell you your optimum days. What I can tell you in short is that through studying you will learn to adapt what best for you and eventually understanding which laws beyond must not be taken for granted. My advice if none of the above helped... take baby steps in your studies - all in moderation.

Spell of the Month

Simple Wish Spell

Needed:|

- 1 sheet of quality paper/parchment
- 1 pen/pencil used in magickal works
- candles (white, but change depending on your wish)

Do a relaxation ritual before this and clear your mind well. Concentrate on the spell not the joy afterwards.

Take the paper/parchment and draw a pentagram in the middle of it. Then draw a ying-yang symbol in the middle of it. Now write down your wish on the top of the sheet. Write your wish such as "make me get rich, make my mother/friend etc. get healed, make me get 'the thing you want'"... Then fold the sheet 2-3 times and seal it with your candle. Then burn it with the fire of candle you sealed it. While it turns into ashes, repeat your wish inside yourself or out loud. When it's all ash, sprinkle the ashes from a window or such.
